Model (recipes)

The only change I made to my model was using 'TextField' instead of 'CharField' for the 'ingredients'. The concern with 'CharField' is the need to set a 'max_length' while 'TextField' has no inherent limit. In addition to the aforementioned change, I added the attribute 'pic' as a placeholder for recipe pictures to be added by the user.

Frontend Inspiration

I took inspiration from the BBC Good Food app. I like its simple design of listing out recipes incorporated with their respective images. Furthermore, it allows for user login/registration. The ability to create accounts also allows for management of personal recipes, which is a feature I hope to incorporate in my own app.